

JULIE MCGEE – MEDICAL ASSISTANT

JULIE'S STORY:

Julie enlisted in the military right after high school. After discharge from the military, Julie went to work for a local Bajio restaurant but knew she wanted to go into a medical career. Julie started at a bigger university and realized that she didn't like the large classes where "they didn't care who was there and who wasn't."

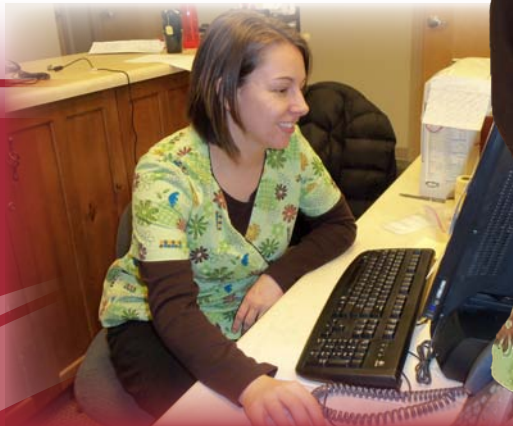

EAGLE GATE COLLEGE:

Julie enrolled in Medical Assisting at Eagle Gate College in August 2009 and graduated in November 2010. Julie enjoyed the atmosphere at Eagle Gate College and loved her instructors. "I like the smaller class sizes and the one-on-one communication with the teachers. If you're late, they're going to call you and find out why you're not in class."

NEW CAREER:

Julie began her internship while she was in the Medical Assisting program at Eagle Gate College. Julie was offered a full-time position as a Medical Assistant a month before her internship ended and she was already working in her new career upon graduation.

"I was finally able to finish school and get a job that I like doing. I get up in the morning and I'm excited to go to work."
